MONDAY NIGHT LIBRARY BLUES

So there I am, you shoulda' been there. No, you shouldn't have been. I'm just pootin' along minding my own business. I'd just been up to the school, ya know, doing a little research in the library, ya know! I mean, I never go to the library, but I'd just gotten off from work, ya know, so I says to myself, I says, "Self, gowin' up to the library, do some research, make you mama happy for once!" So I go, ya know, and the library don't got nothing I'm lookin' for, but I sit in the Micro-film room readin' the New York Times from May 7, 1936. So it's nine o'clock, and I better go home, I mean, too much library ain't good for you, ya got to ease into it like gettin' a sun tan, ya know?

So there I am, you shoulda' been there. It's nine-fifteen and I'm pootin' down Yonree goin' north, I ease through the stop light at Southfield and I'm thinking about my girl, and about "USAF" and how I'm glad I ain't "Zoomie" no more, and how the Air Force just ain't for me. And I'm thinking I haven't come in contact with no Air Force people lately. I wish I'd run into some one just to talk to for awhile. Then suddenly I hear some cat tearing the "boots" off his tires, I mean really diggin' out! I catch a glimpse of him comin' out of the Burger King and he ain't stoppin' for nothin' and it's too late. Wham!! He let's me have it right in the left side. Oh Shit! I says to myself, I says, "Self, here we go again." So I get stopped. The guy runs to me and says, "Don't worry; I'm from Barksdale; my Pop's an officer." So there I am; you shoulda' been there!

MR. AND MS. LSUS

Mr. and Ms. LSUS for 1975 are Rebel Brown and Randy Beach. Ms. Brown is a December graduate with a BA in accounting. She belongs to Beta Chi, Accounting Club, Delta Delta Delta, Artists and Lecturers Committee, and the Long-Range Planning Committee. She is also chairman of the Student Entertainment Committee and a DOM sponsor. Her interests include piano, tennis, musical theater, dancing, and singing. Ms. Brown wants to live in Houston and work for a CPA agency.

Mr. Beach will graduate in May with a degree in General Studies. He is a political science major. Beach has previously served as director of the Office of Community and Government Affairs, as president pro-temp of the Student Senate, and as the student body's registered lobbyist in the 1974 Louisiana Legislature. He is now a member of the LSUS Chapter of the Louisiana Political Science Association and the Special Academic Programs Committee. Beach's interests center around politics, and he wants to work in public relations or government work after graduation.

Ms. Brown and Mr. Beach were chosen through student voting after nominations had been open to the student body for one week. Accompanying the ballot box was a picture and list of accomplishments of each nominee. The results were tallied by the Election Board under the supervision of Dr. Marsala.

First runners-up were Marilyn Kolonko and John Meier.

MS. BAGATELLE

Ms. Bagatelle for 1975 is Sandra Smith. Ms. Smith is a freshman with a major in Education of the Hearing Impaired. After graduation she wants to teach. Her interests include sewing, reading, biking, hiking, and observing people. She works after school at the Barksdale Air Force Base Commissary as a bag-person.

Ms. Bagatelle is chosen by the Bagatelle staff on the basis of her photogenic qualities and her personality. Each nominee is interviewed by the staff. Voting is done by secret ballot.

THE SHREVEPORT STEAMER

On October 2, Shreveport became the home of the Shreveport Steamer. The World Football League team, formerly the Houston Texans, relocated with eight games remaining in the season. Four of these were played in the Louisiana State Fair Stadium. The Steamer played three games on national television. Marshall Taylor is head coach.

1974 STATE FAIR

The 1974 Louisiana State Fair was held October 18-27. Record-breaking crowds turned out despite the cold weather. Tech and Northwestern met in the traditional State Fair Game on October 19, with Tech winning 34-0. Inflation hit the fair — food and rides were more expensive than in previous years. Even the admission price went up to $1.25. Barkers filled the midway, each trying to entice the adventurous to risk his money on a prize. After only ten days of fun and excitement, the fair closed and left Shreveport.

LOUISIANA DOWNS

Louisiana Downs is Shreveport-Bossier City's latest attraction. The 15,000 seat grandstand, glass enclosed and air-conditioned, contains penthouse suites and boxes in addition to the general admission and reserved grandstand seats. Parking is provided for 10,000 cars. The racing season runs from October 30 to January 26. Because of construction delays, the track is open only four days weekly. The oval track is one mile long and has a seven furlong chute. Post time is 1:05.

FALL DANCE

The SGA sponsored a Fall Dance on November 1. The Dean Scott Show began the evening with impersonations of famous entertainers of the 1950's.

Appearing with him were Bobby Bradshaw and the Cosmic Cowboys, who provided music for dancing. The music of Scott and Bradshaw ranged from that of The Platters and Del Williams to that of "Jesus Christ Superstar." The dance was BYOL, and refreshment set-ups were provided.

Summer Study Abroad

After the three weeks of travel in Europe, our group was increasingly eager to arrive at Oxford and begin the three weeks of study there. Just an hour by train from London, the city of Oxford is located in the Cotswolds, an area of rolling hills, deep valleys and stone-built villages. Oxford is not only one of the two oldest university cities of Great Britain, but a thriving industrial town as well. Despite the development during this century of the Morris automotive industry in the city's suburb of Cowley, Oxford is able to preserve an atmosphere of scholarly elegance. Its history can be traced as far back as the Chronicle of 912 as 'Oxenforde,' the ford where oxen and men crossed the river. The Cherwell river borders the city on the east, and joins the Isis, as the Upper Thames is called, and the combined waters flow on to London and sea. The ease with which livestock could ford the streams gave the crossing-place its name, and the Oxford coat-of-arms shows an ox above three wavy blue lines denoting the stream.

As students, our main concern was with the academic life, but we soon gained a lasting appreciation of the city itself and its people. Oxford is not a city plus a university with a deliberately planned 'campus' some distance from the center of the town. Rather, the two have grown together, and the ancient stone doorways of the colleges serenely accept modern shops as next-door neighbors. To become a part of this community, it was necessary for us to learn something of the history of the University system.

The University of Oxford can be said to date from 1214 when the first charter was granted by the Pope, but long before that date a number of religious communities had existed in the town and these were the real beginnings of the University. The colleges, corporate institutions with special rules and privileges, came into being during the Middle Ages, but at first only graduates — were full members of them and it was not until the sixteenth century that all undergraduates were admitted. At present there are thirty-four colleges within the University framework, similar in scholastic goals but differing in size, age, and architecture. The University crest pictures an open book with a Latin motto asking for divine light — Dominus Illuminatio Mea. Students account for one tenth of the Oxford population, roughly 9,000 men and 2,500 women. Two-thirds of these 'read' over three or four years for the bachelor's degree, while one-third are post-graduate students. The name 'don' — a nickname derived from the Latin dominus, master — is widely used. It is applied to all in the academic scale (professors, readers, lecturers) and to all the 1,200 or more Fellows of colleges, who are all graduates, all distinguished in their field, and nearly all also holding University teaching appointments. It is the Fellows, together with the head of their college — called President, Warden, Provost, Rector, Dean, or Principal — that form the governing body of each college. We were instructed by the Bursar at Queen's that the cardinal sin for a newcomer is to walk on the grass within the college. It seems that this is a privilege reserved for the Fellows and we were extremely careful about following paths and resisting the impulse to take a shortcut across the grass.

Certainly, each of the colleges maintains its own appeal and the tourist to Oxford could maintain objectivity about the merits of each. However, students quickly form a fierce loyalty to their school, and the LSUS group soon developed a partisan kinship with Queen's College that survives today despite the present mileage gap between Oxford and Shreveport. The visitors from Louisiana will always treasure the friendship and warmth generated by the English people during our Seminar '74. Oxford is, to different people and for different reasons, a very special place. We came as students who soon gained an awareness of the scope of education to be achieved outside of the lecture hall. Each day we marvelled anew at the richness of the past and found new ways to appreciate its effect on the present. Oxford is not a museum of artistic treasures; it is dynamic and full of life. The city offers both modern living and the tranquility of gardens and cloisters that shut out the noise and bustle of the twentieth century. It is this sense of contrast, the feeling of peaceful acceptance between yesterday and today that gives Oxford its unique place among travel memories.

You're Gonna Do What, Mom?

Irma Rogers is a senior Speech Education major. She is also a wife and the mother of a two year old daughter. Before coming to LSUS in the fall semester of 1972, Irma attended Southern University in Shreveport for two years. She plans to graduate in December, 1975. After graduation, she wants to work in speech and hearing therapy.

Trying to keep up at school and at home is not an easy job, but Irma feels that continuing in school is a worthwhile sacrifice. Irma feels that combining a career and a homelife will be beneficial, both financially and culturally, to her family. Coming to school full-time presents definite problems. Irma sometimes has to prepare meals a day in advance. She also has a problem finding reliable babysitters. Irma tries above all to keep school interests from interfering with her home and family life.

Lori Juckett is a twenty year old speech and hearing therapy education major. She lives in Springhill with her husband Steve and her sixteen month old daughter Stephanie. Lori has to drive 120 miles each day to attend class. Stephanie stays in a day care center in Springhill. Steve helps with the household chores, but the house stays a total disaster. Steve encourages Lori to go to school and says he is going to retire when she graduates. Lori takes time in the evening to spend with Steve and Stephanie, but most of her time is spent with school work. She attended LSU in Baton Rouge for one semester before marriage. She says that there is not a big change in her study habits since she married. On weekends she usually neglects her school work, taking this time to clean because it has not been done during the week. Lori comes to school to be more in life than a maid, babysitter, and cook. She feels that people who go to college are more mature and seem to be better conversationalists.

Martha Bolch differs from other housewives at LSUS. Marty, as she prefers to be called, already has a degree in psychology but has decided to return to school. She has two children. Her son, age sixteen, is a student at Byrd High, and her daughter, twenty-two, is a graduate of Centenary College. Marty therefore has no problem in scheduling class hours around the needs of her children. School does present a problem, however, when it comes to housework — it is sometimes neglected — but she proudly says that she has now found someone to help her. Though still just a dream in the back of her mind, Marty would like to write a book for children after graduation. Marty says of her situation, "When a woman reaches middle age, she often needs to do something different to rekindle her interest in life. A hobby, job, another house, or sport can make her life a whole new ball game. Reducing the boredom that sameness produces and creating some type of activity to fill the void she may feel with an emptying nest is her object. In my case going back to college has done the trick beautifully. I can highly recommend to any bored or lonesome woman, the real joy of learning something of value to yourself. Also, the fresh outlook you can gain from contacts with college students and faculty is beneficial."

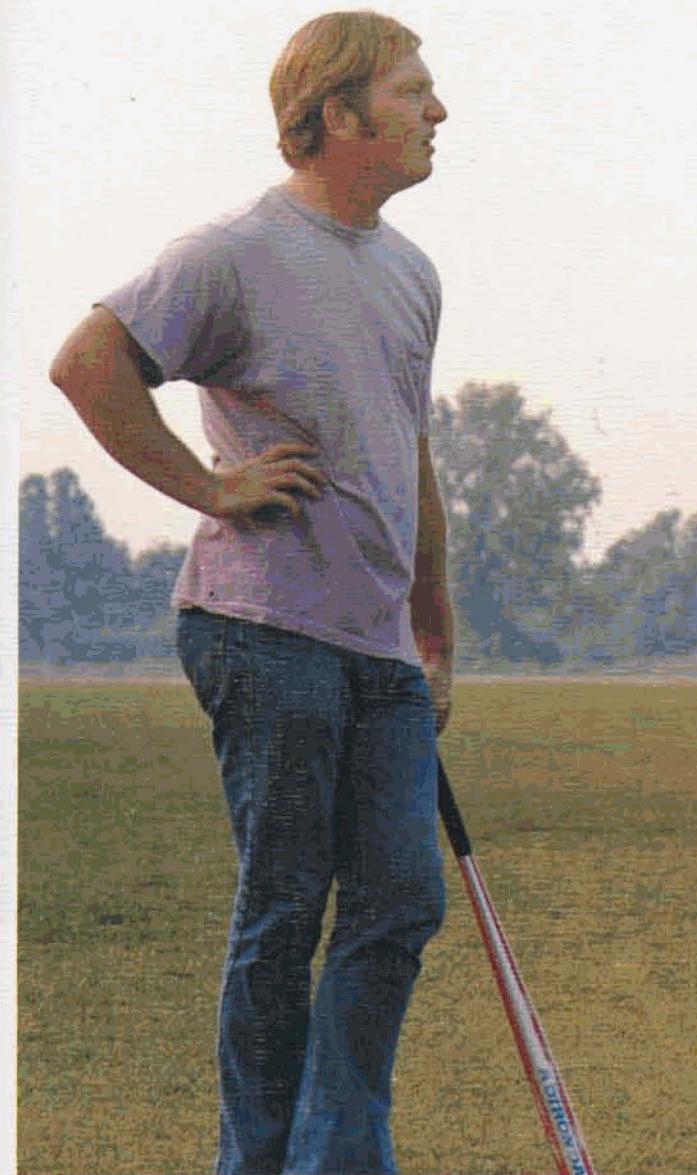

Donna Wilhite is a 28 year old junior with a major in speech and hearing education. She has lived in Bossier City for eleven years and has a six year old son named Jeff. Donna started college as a part-time student in the College of General Studies. She later changed to her present major and became a full-time student. Donna has a hard time finding time to study because her time is taken up with other things. Her original purpose in coming to college was to help her find a good job. Donna's family helps her go to school. Jeff brags about his mother being a college student. Her husband Tommy helps her with typing, babysitting, cooking, and cleaning. When she has to study for finals, he takes Jeff to the movies and the park. Donna says, "If I get a degree, I can owe a lot to my husband." She feels that a woman will have a hard time going to school unless she has help and support from her husband.

Oh No, Registration Again!

1: The long wait for card packets is only the beginning of the long day ahead. 2: Clubs actively recruit new members. 3: Why bother to look nice when the picture always comes out bad? 4: At least our tuition is the lowest in the state. 5: Parking stickers seem to be the only free service offered. 6: It takes as long to buy books as to register.

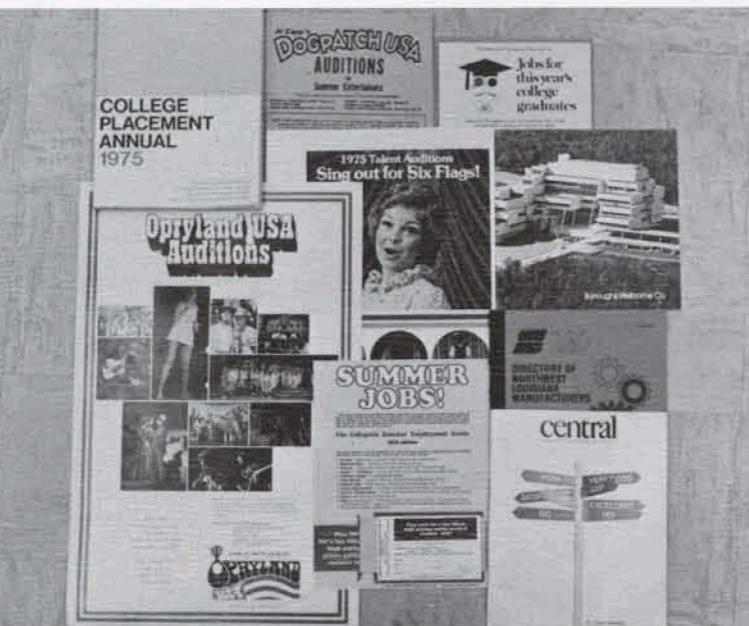

Oh no, registration again! the most complicated thing I've ever done — stand in line for hours — if I don't get in that biology class, I'll fail — math next — glad when that's over — advisor tells me to take wrong math course — thought she was supposed to know — have to change my major — do that later — a thousand papers — what do they do with them? — don't understand directions on stupid cards — sit down and start over again — picture — that's always awful — see all the flaws — put this in zipper compartment of my billfold — don't want anyone to see this — book store — another hour —

REGISTRATION IS . . . the agony of having to wait through a long line just to be told that the course you want to take is not offered . . . hours of walking from room to room in order to locate your class . . . losing your parking sticker and having to go back to each room to find it, when all along it was tucked nicely away in your card packet . . . headaches from concentrating on what courses to take and what courses not to take (what's required around this place anyway?) . . . walking down a crowded hall and dropping your packet . . . naturally, everything falls out . . .

Registration comes in bits and pieces. If you were a dog you wouldn't know where to bury your bone. It's like learning a complicated game on horseback. You can feel and hear the stomping of feet. Registration is like crowded buses — first come, first serve. It is hard as wood.

You've Got a Friend in the Placement Office

Despite the steady rise in unemployment, there is still hope for the graduating senior. A placement office was formed on campus to help place graduates in jobs in the fall semester. Mrs. Phyllis Blackwell Graham, who has been with the university since July, 1967, and who supervised student records in the Registrar's Office, was appointed director of the placement office. Mrs. Graham has started a permanent file on each graduating senior which contains a transcript, a resume, and letters of recommendation.

When graduates apply for jobs they can request the placement office to send a copy of their file to prospective employers. This service is free of charge. These files are kept on record for graduate's future use. Many graduating seniors said they are very excited about the new placement office. "I'm just glad to know that someone else besides my father cares if I get a job," one LSUS senior said. According to Mrs. Graham, "It is going to grow tremendously." We will be the only college placement service in the Shreveport area." Chancellor Donald E. Shipp remarked, "A college placement service is a standard service found on any college campus, and it is time we started one. The office acts as an agency to bring employers to students."

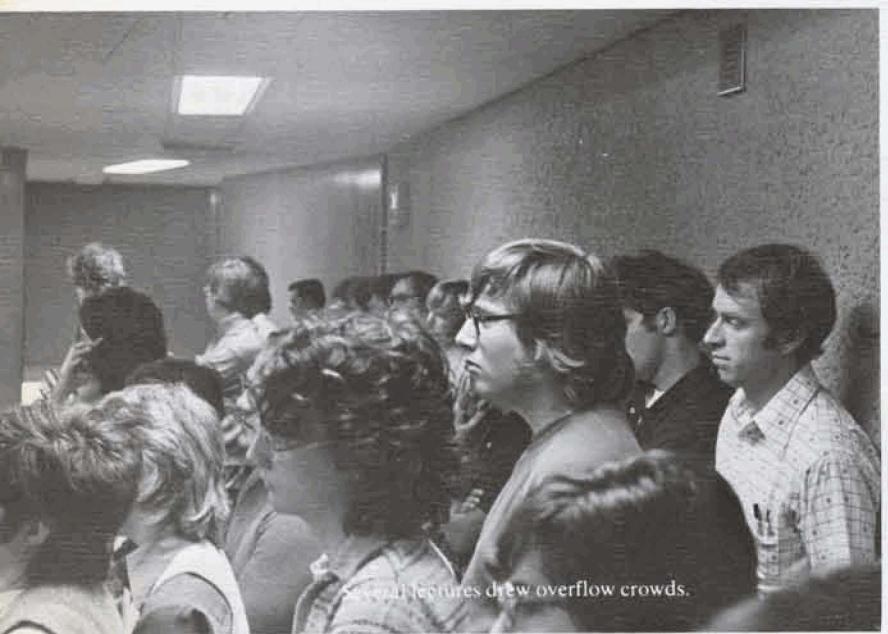

Mrs. Graham will also provide the placement office with current information about the demand in the new and continuing curricula and will compile statistics on the availability of graduates locally, statewide, and nationally. A career library and a store of employer literature will also be available for student and faculty use. In an attempt to gain employment information and statistics, the placement director will join various placement organizations such as the Louisiana Council of Placement Officers and the Southwest Placement Association. Other functions of the placement service will be to provide on-campus interviews with employers, to provide current job listings, and to make employer literature available to students.

Company representatives from Dallas, Houston, and New Orleans have already scheduled interviews, and several students have been placed. Mrs. Graham has made plans to visit various Chambers of Commerce in Louisiana and Texas to let employers know that LSUS has a work force. "We plan to place every graduate who wants to be placed," said Mrs. Graham. "We will attempt to place them in something they are trained for or something they like." At the moment Mrs. Graham is manning the placement office by herself, but the staff will grow with the office. "We have to educate employers as to what human power we have, and we have to educate students as to what jobs are available in the local area," she adds. "Lots of students are lost when they graduate. They may have a degree, but they wonder what they can do with it. We are here to help students use their degrees to the best advantage." According to the director, the placement office will serve many specific functions, but the main goal is to create a bridge between the world of work and the world of education.

SPECIAL EDUCATION CENTER

The Special Education Center completed its second year on the LSUS campus by providing evaluation for approximately 430 children from Caddo Parish. The Center staff consists of a four member evaluation team, two secretaries and the Center director. Four professional disciplines, each contributing to the total evaluation, are represented on the team. This team approach results in each evaluation containing a social history, educational assessment, psychological assessment, and speech and hearing assessment. There is no charge to the parent for this service and any child of school age referred by the Caddo Parish School Board will be evaluated. Educational handicaps that have been evaluated in the Center include mental retardation, emotional disturbance, specific learning disability, visual handicap, hearing handicap, and orthopedic handicap. Sensory and physical impairments are not diagnosed by the Center; only the educational implications are assessed. In addition to the handicapping conditions, gifted children also are evaluated by the center.

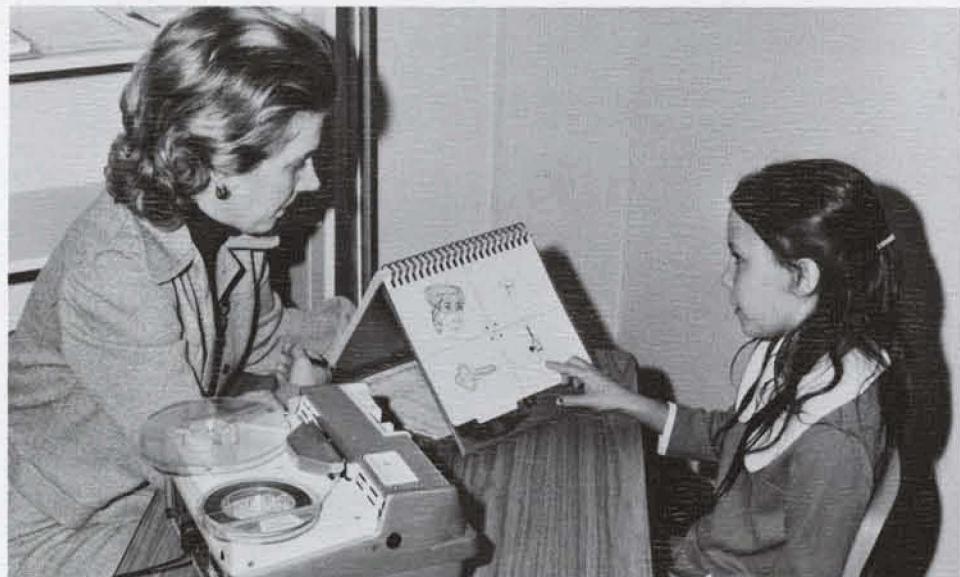

Team coordinator and clinical social worker is Ms. Elaine Preston. Ms. Preston schedules each case, assigns testing and conferences for other team members and maintains contact with referral sources. The initial parent conference including a social history is held with the parents by Ms. Preston. The speech and hearing consultant, Ms. Sheila Burks, tests each child for hearing ability and for speech and language function.

Dr. Marshman works at his desk.

Ms. Preston greets a client and his parents.

Ms. Burks tests her client's speech and language function.

Dr. Bennett performs a routine examination.

Ms. Penny assesses intellectual ability.

Ms. Preston conducts the terminal interview.

Educational achievement in basic subjects, impairment in learning processes and fine motor efficiency are evaluated by Dr. LaVerne Bennett, the educational consultant. Psychologist for the team is Ms. Carolyn Penny. Ms. Penny assesses intellectual ability, personality, gross motor function. Each team member prepares an interpretation and reports his findings in a staff meeting. Recommendations are made by the team in this meeting and findings are summarized by Ms. Preston. Ms. Preston then arranges a terminal conference with the parents and explains the results of the evaluation and recommendations of the team.

A report is sent to the school board office, and a conference is held by one of the staff members with the child's teacher at his school. The process is a very thorough approach to assessing special educational problems. Since special education programs involve 8-12% of the pupils in many systems, the Center provides LSUS with direct contact with a significant area of the total educational program. The Center has been a valuable resource for students of the behavioral disciplines. Students at LSUS majoring in special education and in other areas have consulted members of the evaluation staff concerning projects that relate to their areas of specialization. Course projects involving children seen in the Center were completed by several students this year. Projects have included case studies, service surveys, and methods application.

LSUS Exposed to Artistic Expression

The LSUS Art Gallery, located in Liberal Arts 336, was opened in the fall semester. It is open Monday to Friday from 8:30 to 3:30. The gallery's primary purpose is to show various works of art done by students. These works can be purchased from their respective artists.

The gallery has an educational value for students, faculty, and the community in that it displays professional as well as amateur works, consequently, providing maximum art exposure to everyone. Works are displayed by local as well as regional artists. The gallery endeavors to show the many different types and styles of art, but the trend has been to avoid the traditional works. Works that have been shown include ceramics, crafts, sculpture, wall hangings, and photographs.

The first showing dating from November 25 to December 5, was a display of various prints and art structure problems contributed by the art classes of Ms. Ann Terzia and Mr. Don Alexander. A new show is put up every few weeks. According to Ms. Terzia, "these displays were organized to achieve unity and coherence through visual communications."

On February 14, students from Louisiana Tech University's Advertising Club presented a show of advertising products, including graphic designs and letterings.

Plans for the future development of the Art Gallery call for films and multimedia, thereby extending the diversity of the gallery's repertoire. Ms. Chyrl Savoy, Assistant Professor of Fine Arts, is the creator and vital force behind the gallery. Ms. Ann Terzia and Mr. Don Alexander, also of the Fine Arts Department, contribute much time and help.

COMMUNICATION CENTER

The LSU-Shreveport Communication Center is a facility designed to provide clinical practicum experience for speech pathology students. State certification in speech pathology or national certification from the American Speech and Hearing Association both require that an undergraduate student perform 200 supervised, face-to-face clock hours of therapy. This experience is gained both at the LSUS Communication Center and at other area facilities. The Communication Center is therefore a facility designed to fill a direct academic requirement for students. The Communication Center provides two major services. The first is diagnostic evaluations. Four  $\frac{1}{2}$ -hour time slots per week are allotted to doing evaluations. Clients are referred to the Center by parents, schools, other centers, and as a result of notices placed on local radio and television. Before the client comes to the center, a letter is sent to him or his parent explaining where to come and including a case history form. The parent is asked to fill in the case history and return it or bring it when the client comes. A screening test, articulation tests, and language competencies and hearing abilities are administered. A brief oral examination is also done to determine whether or not structure and movement of lips, teeth, tongue, and mouth is normal. At the end of the evaluation, a report is written by the student. After the report is corrected by the supervisor, it is typed, put in his permanent file, and a copy is sent to parents or any school or other facility which the parent may designate.

Some of the clients evaluated are referred to other agencies for therapy, but some are enrolled at this center. A student clinician is assigned to a client; the client is scheduled, and then comes to the center twice a week for therapy. The student clinician prepares the session plan, plans the therapy, gathers the material, and does the therapy — all under the supervision of a faculty supervisor. The two faculty members who supervise the Communication Center are Dr. Anne Torrants and Mrs. Alice Morgan. All speech pathology students start and get their first training here at the LSUS Communication Center. After some experience has been obtained, they are assigned to such area speech and hearing facilities as: Mollie E. Webb Speech and Hearing Center, the Veterans Administration Hospital, C-BARC, Caddo Parish Health Unit, and St. Joseph's School. Complete records are kept of all the therapy and diagnostic time that a

The Communication Center does approximately 60 diagnostic evaluations per semester and sees 40-50 clients for one hour of therapy per week for a total of 600-700 hours of therapy. A regular summer session has not yet been held, but is being planned for the summer of 1975.

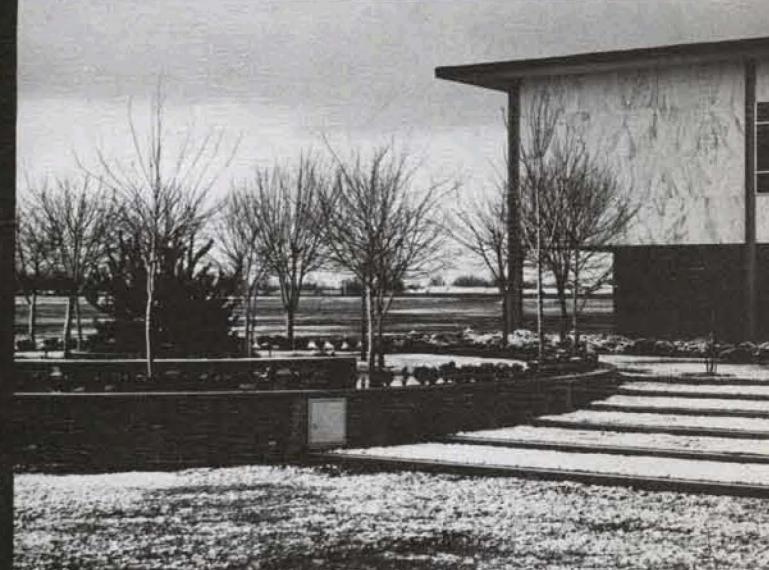

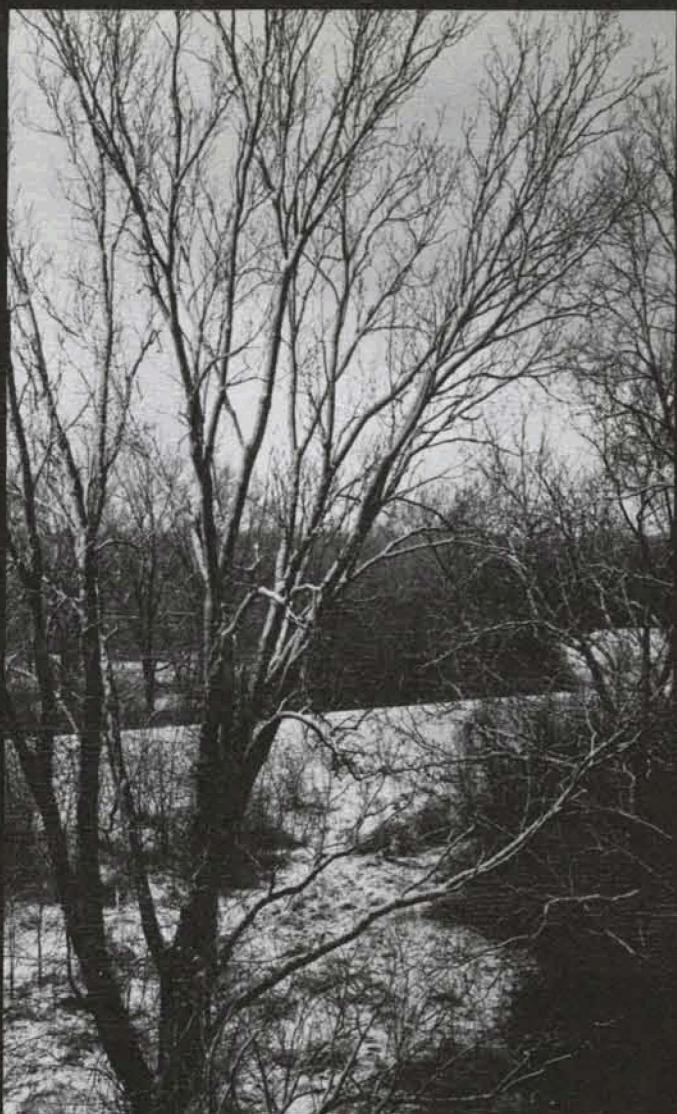

At present the majority of clients in the Communication Center are children. As the program expands and more advanced courses are added, more adults will be included in this. Clients enrolled in the Communication Center each semester include children and adults with articulation disorders, language disorders, and those who stutter. Also included are children with such handicaps as cleft palate, brain damage, and mental retardation.

Though the community service provided by the Center is an important consideration in scheduling and accepting clients, the primary consideration is the therapy experience of LSUS students. The student therapists at the Communication Center are speech pathology majors either in the program in the School of Education, which leads to state certification as a speech, hearing, and language specialist, or in the new speech pathology degree program in the school of Liberal Arts. These students must complete all freshman and sophomore level required courses and must observe at least 40 hours of clinical therapy and practicum before they start doing therapy. A student's first therapy case is usually assigned in connection with one of his classes. The majority of therapy time is done while enrolled in two three-hour clinical practicum courses.

Like everything else at LSUS, the Communication Center is very new. In the last two years, however, a large number of therapy and testing materials has been ordered and is in use. At this point, the Communication Center is as well equipped as almost any university speech and hearing center in the state. Plans for future expansion include the addition of therapy room — observation room suites and three therapy rooms with no observation facilities are in use. A large workroom has been provided for storage of equipment. Space is also provided so that clinicians may do their preparing and gathering of materials. A waiting room is provided for the clients and for the parents and other children.

Any student, faculty member, or resident of the area who has a speech or hearing problem or a child who has a speech or hearing problem can call the Communication Center for help. If the problem is one which is beyond the capacity of this Center, the person will be referred to other area facilities which can handle his problem.

GOVERNOR EDWIN W. EDWARDS

Governor Edwin W. Edwards has been involved in eight campaigns for public office and has never been defeated. In December, 1971, after leading a field of 17 candidates in the first primary, he won the Democratic nomination for Governor of Louisiana. On February 1, 1972, he was elected Governor of Louisiana, the first French speaking Governor in more than 100 years. Edwin Edwards is one of few public officials in Louisiana who have served at the city, state, and national level. He is also a recognized authority on energy, its shortages on the state and national level, and ramifications of the energy crisis of 1974. He was recipient of the first Louisiana Thomas Jefferson Award from the Louisiana State University School of Journalism in 1974. The award is presented annually to a public official who defends and protects the freedom of news media to inform the public. Edwin Edwards was also awarded the 1974 "Lulu" award. This is usually presented to a fashion journalist. He is the first politician to receive the award.

VICE CHANCELLORS

To: LSU-Shreveport Students and Faculty

As we come to the end of the eighth year of LSU-Shreveport's short life, there is much for which we should be proud. During this relatively short time, a fine physical plant has been started, a four-year program has been approved and accredited, and an excellent academic reputation has been established. Despite the troubled times which affected all college campuses during these years, LSU-Shreveport experienced steady growth and developed needed programs of instruction and public service.

Many student leaders, dedicated faculty and staff, and interested citizens of Shreveport and Bossier City contributed to LSU-Shreveport's development. To all of them, I wish to express my appreciation. The many thousands of students who will be served by this campus in the future will also be thankful for these efforts. LSU-Shreveport is now on the threshold of being able to serve adequately the higher educational needs of the northwest corner of our State. Your continued interest and support will make the realization of this goal possible.

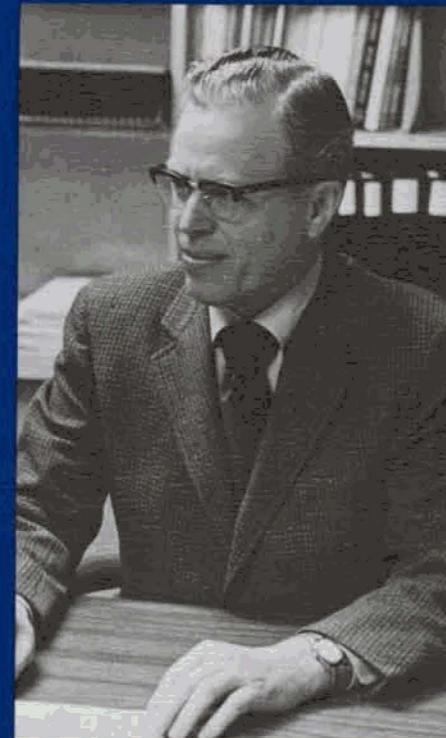

Sincerely yours,

Donald E. Shipp
Chancellor

Dr. Gary K. Brashier

Dr. Gary K. Brashier, vice chancellor of academic affairs, received his B.S. degree in chemistry from Northeast State University and his Ph.D. degree from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. He has taught at Northeast and has done research work for Texaco Research Labs in Houston. He has been chosen to be the general chairman for the National Rose Show which is to be held in Shreveport in 1977. Dr. Brashier feels that students should learn to seek advice and share their ideas with the faculty members. They should also find a way to study that will benefit them the most. Dr. Brashier feels that we have a very outstanding and special faculty and by working with the students, the faculty can continue to build an outstanding University.

Dr. A. J. Howell

Prior to coming to LSUS, Dr. A. J. Howell was a business instructor for Concordia Parish Trade School and assistant supervisor of school accounts for the Louisiana State Department of Education. Dr. Howell received his B.S. degree from Louisiana Tech and his M.Ed. and Ed.D. degrees from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. Being vice chancellor of business affairs, he is aware of the economic situation and feels that the present economic system needs some adjustments by the government and private industry to meet the inflation problems. He believes that there should be increased productivity, tax adjustment, lower interest rates, and greater economy in the operation of the government.

Dr. Jimmie N. Smith

Dr. Jimmie N. Smith received his B.A. degree from Louisiana Tech, his M.A. degree from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, and his Ed.D. degree from East Texas State University. Before coming to LSUS, Dr. Smith was on the staff at Centenary College. During this time, he and fourteen Centenary students and another administrator went to Honduras during the Christmas holidays to rebuild a church which had been destroyed by a tornado. Dr. Smith is currently the vice chancellor of student affairs. He is also an active member of the First Methodist Church where he teaches Sunday School and a singles class. On this campus, the vice chancellor feels that students have an input and that we have quite an open door policy and direct access to the chancellor and all faculty members.

COLLEGES OF DEANS

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS

Dr. Kenneth R. Grubbs

A native of Crandall, Texas, Dr. Grubbs earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees in economics and political science from the University of North Texas and a Ph.D. degree in economics and public administration from the University of Texas. He has done post doctoral research and study at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois and at Oklahoma State University. Dr. Grubbs has taught at Louisiana Tech, Sam Houston State College, Texas A&M, and North Texas State University. Dr. Kenneth K. Grubbs holds the position of dean of the college of business administration. Pollution is the one big problem which he would like to solve in the business world.

COLLEGE OF GENERAL STUDIES

Dr. Vincent J. Marsala

Dr. Marsala's advice to new students is to get a thorough understanding of the catalog by carefully reading the University regulations. Many students get confused in their majors because of the lack of knowledge in understanding the requirements of the University. The general studies program is designed for the mature students who prefer to concentrate their studies in a broad area of interest rather than a particular disciplinary major. Dr. Vincent J. Marsala, dean of the college of general studies, holds a B.A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State University and an M.A. and Ph.D. degree from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Dr. Mary Ann McBride, a Houston native, received a B.A. degree magna cum laude from Louisiana Tech in 1959 with a major in speech education. She was awarded an M.A. degree and a Ph.D. degree in English from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. Dr. McBride taught at Rusheon Junior High School in Bossier City from 1960-63 and was a graduate assistant in the Department of English at LSUBR from 1964-67. She joined the LSUS faculty in 1968. Dr. McBride now holds the position of dean of the college of liberal arts. Dr. McBride believes that the most important aspect of the liberal art curriculum is its flexibility in adapting the unchanging principles of the liberal arts tradition to the demands of the changing world.

COLLEGE OF SCIENCES

Dr. Thomas A. Moss came to LSUS in 1967. He is currently the dean of the college of sciences. He has taught at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge and at Northeast Louisiana State University. He also worked for General Dynamics Corporation as a senior nuclear physicist in Fort Worth and in astrophysics at the Houston Space Center. Dr. Moss holds a B.S. degree in physics from Louisiana Tech and M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in physics from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. His advice to students is to learn something and not just aim for grades. Dr. Moss is currently doing research work for NASA on the charged-particle transport theory. This involves the propagation of cosmic rays through the solar system.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

Dr. Bobby E. Tabarlet

Dr. Bobby E. Tabarlet, dean of the college of education, stated that the biggest change he would like to make in education is to emphasize the importance of learning and de-emphasize certificates and grades. He advises students to build confidence in themselves to get ahead in a competitive society. He also feels that students should sample from all areas of knowledge and become well-rounded individuals. He feels that the strength of this University is in its faculty. He stated that we have a strong faculty for a university that is only seven years old. Dr. Tabarlet received his B.S. degree from the University of Southwestern and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Louisiana State University.

Delta Sigma Phi

Want to leave your imprint on LSUS after you graduate? Delta Sigma Phi offers you the opportunity to become a charter member of a national greek social fraternity and to have your name permanently recorded on the charter. You have the opportunity to help create a perpetual organization and to mold its charter and traditions.

Delta Sigma Phi was founded on the principle of brotherhood. Each of the brothers share his experiences, his hopes, his successes, and his failures. This is the spirit of young men working together to help each member realize his fullest potential. Delta Sigma Phi encourages better scholarship achievement. The Louisiana District of Delta Sigma Phi has a revolving scholarship plaque presented each semester to the colony or chapter with the highest grade average. In addition the national organization provides a limited number of scholarships and has revolving student loan fund.

Delta Sigma Phi has plans for numerous service projects in both the community and school. These include working with Shriners Hospital, Holy Angels School for the Mentally Retarded, and the Louisiana Lions Camp for Crippled Children. On campus Delta Sigma Phi plans to work for school beautification, increased school spirit, and many other projects to improve the quality of student life at LSUS.

A Little Sister's Club has been formed by Delta Sigma Phi. Their function is to serve as hostesses at Delta Sigma Phi parties.

Delta Sigma Phi was founded in 1899 in New York City. There are 110 chapters and 19 colonies evenly distributed across the United States and Canada. The executive headquarters is in Denver, Colorado. Delta Sigma Phi is in its first year at LSUS. Among its achievements has been a book drive for charity, a Christmas party at Shriners with the help of Zeta Tau Alpha, and helping the Bagatelle staff distribute yearbooks to the community.

Alpha Phi

Phi Mu Alpha Becomes Alpha Phi

Ever thought about moving into a new community and having a ready-made set of friends? Would you like to have a part in setting traditions that will affect LSUS in years to come? Membership in LSUS first national sorority, Alpha Phi can bring these to a reality.

Alpha Phi was founded on September 30, 1872 at Syracuse University in Syracuse, New York. There were ten founders of the fraternity. When the Original Ten met and bound themselves in sisterhood, could they have visualized a Centennial celebrated by thousands of Alpha Phi's across the United States and Canada? This event was celebrated with more than 65,000 girls in 1972.

The structure of the fraternity took shape within weeks after the founding. Symbols and signs were thoughtfully adopted in the next month. Long before the turn of the century the Constellation Ursa Major was selected as the fraternity emblem; the forget-me-not and lily-of-the-valley were adopted as symbolic flowers; the ruby became the official jewel; and in 1889, the ivy leaf pledge pin was suggested. The silver and bordeaux became the Fraternity colors in 1884 and the Alpha Phi Crest was adopted in 1906.

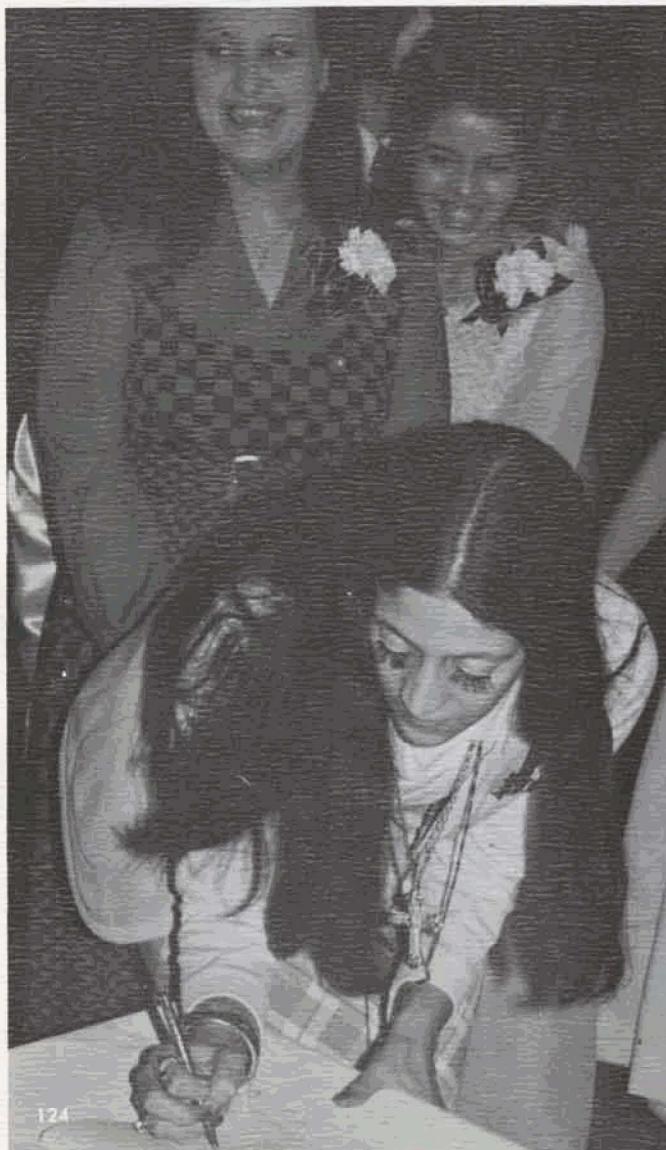

Alpha Phi has the distinction of being the first Greek organization at LSUS. This was accomplished through a combination effort that involved the pledging of a local sorority and colonizing a group of other girls at the same time.

Epsilon Tau Chapter of Alpha Phi at LSUS was installed on Saturday, November 23, 1974 following the Court of Ivy, which was conducted the preceding evening. Initiation was by Delta Tau Chapter of LSU, Baton Rouge and was conducted at the Christ United Methodist Church. A banquet was held Saturday night at the Shreveport Petroleum Club atop the Mid-South Towers. The international Charter was presented on Sunday at a reception which was held at the Women's Department Club.

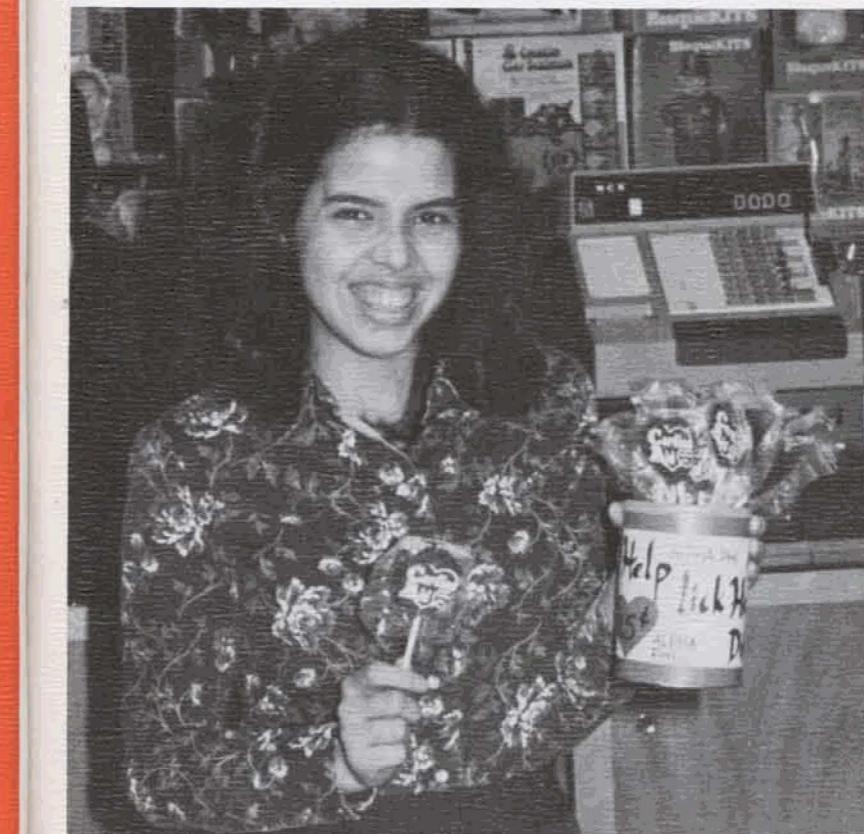

The individuality of Alpha Phi is found in its traditions. In them lies its reason for existence. They designate its ideals, its standards and its goals. Traditions are its link with the past and its tie with the future, the constant thread and common bond that makes the organization unique from any other.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

International Fraternity for Women

During the summer of 1974 a group of LSUS students organized to bring the national sorority Zeta Tau Alpha to the campus. On August 26, the ZTA's became the second national sorority at LSUS. ZTA's formed a colony, became pledges and immediately launched a program of study and search for service projects.

On campus the girls found areas of service. Patty Akin was appointed by the SGA as Student Representative to the Faculty Council Library Committee. Nelda Lane was named Regional Coordinator for the Student Entertainment Committee and Becky Hudsmith served with the Community and Government Affairs Committee. Prexie Joani Hunt represented Zeta in the IOC.

Off-campus Zetas ushered for two different performances of Children's Theatre productions at the Civic Theatre. They worked in their continuing project with the Toy Loan Center at Noel Memorial Methodist Church. At Christmas time, parties were given for the children who use the Toy Loan Center and for the children at the Shriner's Children Hospital. The sorority also helped the alumnae in their annual candle sale.

Zetas enjoyed their recreational activities — participating in volleyball intramural competition as well as in individual sports. They enjoyed studying. Only one member, Becky Hudsmith, made the coveted 4.0 average for the fall semester, but she proved what Zeta's could accomplish. Zeta activities included weekly meeting with rush parties, establishing friendship with other young women of similarly high ideals, meetings with their Field Secretary who came to Shreveport several times during the year, and a long Zeta day in Lake Charles in March.

February 28, 1975 stands as Zeta's most memorable day. This was initiation and installation day when Zeta's moved from provisional to active status on the LSUS campus and entertained the ZTA international President along with other visiting dignitaries who flew into Shreveport to officially install the Eta Omega Chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha as the 168th link in the Zeta Tau Alpha chain of chapters, becoming the second national sorority with active status at LSUS. Dr. Lillian Hall, Associate Professor of Communications, served as the sorority's faculty adviser.

Delta Delta Delta

"Tri Delta" was founded Thanksgiving Eve, 1888, at Boston University as a National Women's Fraternity. By the first anniversary of the founding there were three chapters located in three different states. Chapters now number 120.

Upon unanimous vote of the Executive Board in Arlington, Texas, Omicron Nu Epsilon, a local sorority, was approved for Delta Delta Delta membership and thus became this 120th chapter.

The Fraternity's primary philanthropy consists of scholarship awards to aid college students. Over half of the awards are made to students who do not belong to any fraternity, and fewer than one-fourth go to Tri Delta members. In fact, each year a number of scholarships are awarded to members of other sororities. As of December, 1973 the scholarship awards totaled $786,431.00 benefiting 4,369 students. Aside from these actual scholarship awards, Tri Delta, under its student loan program has loaned $106,712.00 to 16,222 students.

Tri Delta's newest National Philanthropy is the support of children's hospitals and other pediatric facilities; with emphasis on cancer in children, oncology, and hematology research and treatment, as well as blood replacement programs. This philanthropy was established at the Delta Delta Delta National Convention in 1974. In connection with this new service project, during Christmas the LSUS chapter entertained and presented gifts to the children at Confederate Memorial Medical Center.

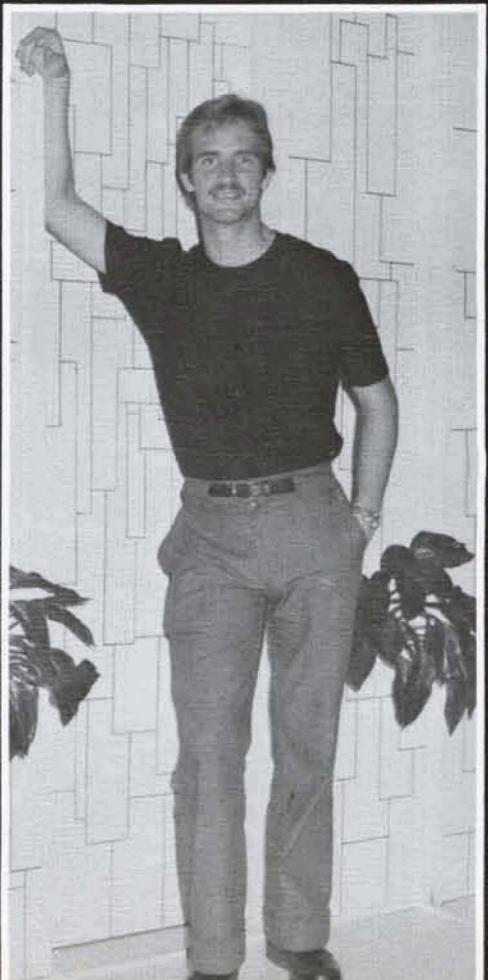

Delta Delta Delta has a total membership of 102,087 with more than 7,000 collegiate members. Along with collegiate chapters there are 327 active alumnae chapters in the United States and abroad.

The LSUS Art Theatre is one of the campus' few outlets in the field of drama. The club's goals are to promote an interest in the arts and skills of the theatre as well as to provide for the development of dramatic skills among the student body. This organization provides an opportunity for the exchange of ideas, opinions, and information. Experimentation with the dramatic arts also takes place in the form of such activities as improvisations and acting exercises. With the planned production of at least one play a year the Art Theatre hopes to bring out the talents of students at LSUS not only in acting but in set design, make-up, hair styling, wardrobe, and directing. Members are encouraged to visit and work at local theatres. The Beverly Barn hired several LSUS students as stage hands through the Drama Club. A liaison has also been set up between Centenary's Marjorie Lyons Playhouse and the Art Theatre. Members are free to attend the one-act plays presented by Centenary students each week. Through discussions, exercises, and actual production experience students are able to familiarize themselves with the many facets of the theatre.

Almagest

LSU Shreveport

VOL. VIII. NUMBERS 1 — 25

The Almagest, the official newspaper of LSUS, provides information for students and serves as a laboratory where students gain practical experience in the production of a newspaper. Housed within the Department of Communications, the Almagest supplies timely news, editorial, feature, entertainment and photo coverage of University, local and national affairs. While most articles are written by the Almagest staff, the newspaper accepts contributions from its readers.

The fall semester began with an overall change in the Almagest's format, style and size. With a new staff and printer and an increased budget, the newspaper expanded from a four-page tabloid printed on glossy paper to an eight-page tabloid printed on newsprint. Format and style changes included photo features, an entertainment section and regular columnists. Other firsts for the school year include Campus Briefs, free classified advertising for students and staff and the conversion to a three-column format. In addition, the newspaper's circulation and advertising revenues increased significantly during the fall and spring semesters. Circulation rose to 2,500 copies per week, while advertising sales have tripled.

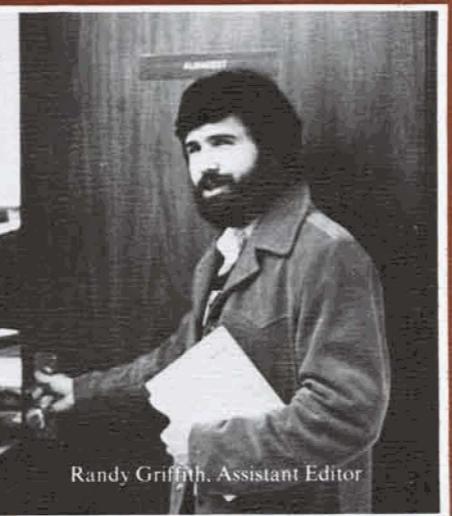

Staff members are involved in nearly all phases of putting the newspaper together. Almost all photos, copy and cartooning are done by staff members. The staff writes, edits, and proofs copy. Staff photographers are responsible for taking, developing and printing photos for each week's edition. The business manager sells advertising, does ad layout and maintains an inventory of Almagest supplies. Other staff duties include gathering news, arranging pictures and copy on pages, writing headlines, proofing page galley and pasting-up the galley for the actual printing. In essence, the staff is involved in producing the newspaper until it is camera-ready. The actual printing of the Almagest is done by offset press by the Bossier Tribune. Distribution is done by the staff to numerous locations on the University campus for pickup by readers.

The Almagest enjoys a large degree of freedom in deciding what is to be printed in each issue, and has experienced no problems in the area of censorship. Responsibility for content lies with the editor and copy is not submitted to the advisor for approval prior to publication.

Weekly Staff Meeting

THE INS AND OUTS OF MAKING A YEARBOOK

On the afternoon of Thursday, January 30, 1975, the Bagatelle staff of Louisiana State University was arrested for putting out (among other things) the 1974-75 Bagatelle. It was reported that previous advisers, distinguished faculty members, and the university's omniscient one plotted and conspired in the secrecy of the mall to do in the 1974-75 staff consisting of: Lindy McNabb and Karen Avery (Editors-in-Chief), Charles Henson (Organization Section Editor), Marilyn Kolonko (Faculty Section Editor), Mike Ferrell (Class Section Editor and Assistant Photographer), Dale Massie (Chief Photographer), Mark Elfervig and Linda Piazza (Assistant Photographers), and Trudy Moore, Pat Powell, and Wanda Johnson (Layout Assistants). Several of these still have not been apprehended.

Statements made by members of the faculty clensed the arrest. Dr. Dalton Cloud, Chairman of the Department of Communications and the yearbook's budget adviser is reported as having said, "I told them not to falsify their time cards." Dr. Hilda Broom, Professor of Witchcraft and Biochemistry, said, "They never used their broom for the correct purposes." Dr. Milton Finley, the new yearbook adviser and patron saint, has been quoted as saying, "I know nothing — I 'vas' only following orders." Mr. William Shakespeare, Visiting Lecturer in Greek Mythology, voiced his opinion on paper, "Out damned spots, out I say!" Ms. Loretta Lampkin, yearbook's previous adviser and gal Friday, said, "They made me wash dishes at El Chico because their pay checks could not cover the cost of my crispy taco." Dr. Merriam Webster, Professor of Remedial Advanced Literature, commented, "bagatelle (bag' ē-tel') n. (F., fr. It. bagattella) 1. a trifle. 2. A game played with a cue and balls on an oblong board having at one end cups, or cups and arches." Mrs. Funkie Winklebean, secretary for the Department of Origami stated, "They have brains made of paper." And Dr. Snoopy "Woodstock" Beagle, Chairman of the College of Appliance Maintenance, candidly added, "They kept their office like a bunch of dogs, and where did the bird droppings come from?"

Coupled with these statements, their dirty office, foul mouthed staffers, distasteful appearance, and the visible display of a swastika on the door, the Department of Justice headed by Fearless (Vice Squad) George proceeded to take action against our brave hero persons. Subjects were arrested and paraded down police headquarters after law officials busted their herb party. Unknown to the staffers, officers were incognito and after partaking of the last bit of delicacy, a red-eyed officer "stoned-ly" announced the circumstances.

The staffers were indicted on the charges of conspiring to throw up on the SGA, which is already somewhat thrown up; telling dirty jokes with lousy punchlines; totally destroying the library's treasured pornography section (Library of Congress #4Q ANDME2) and sticking out their tongues at the Chancellor. Our friends were finally released after giving a $5.00 bribe to the judge and a centerfold of Miss LSUS with a horse.

The inquisitive of you might ask, "Why are these people smiling?" The answer to this query is that they have finally completed a masterpiece of artistic, if not literary, wit; namely, the 1974-75 Bagatelle which is now on sale for free at your not so fine LSUS bookstore and massage parlors everywhere. So grab your trusty student ID, the one with the picture, rush down to your nearest speakeasy, rant and rave, jump up and down, smash your fist, slash your wrist, and demand your newest issue of the 1974-75 Bagatelle, because if you miss this one it's too bad. The entire university is coming to an end after this paragraph. AH! ARMAGEDDON!

— Charles Henson
It's been like advising yearbook? Lest you be deceived by what follows, let me assure you that the staffers have been super; I loved working with them. Yes, I've put in extra hours, but those hardly count along side the hours each editor, photographer, and staffer has worked, planned, sweated, cried, ripped-up and started over, worried, feared, despaired, hoped, laughed, then rejoiced with the completion of each book. What's it been like these past four years? What I can remember, for I was in a state of semi-shock most of the time, now simply seems funny. So for the benefit of him who has taken on the task of adviser, I leave some "Quotes Worth Requoting" and "An Adviser's Articles of Faith."

QUOTES WORTH REQUOTING

Budget? You mean we have a budget? No! Positively, absolutely, unconditionally NO! You can NOT put two nude silhouettes on a division page and call it "Student Affairs." Whadda ya mean "I quit"? You can't quit. You did that already — on the eve of the last deadline. Missing? You mean camera, tripod, strobe, and all? Whose big idea was it to put my office next to Bagatelle's?

— Loretta Lampkin
Oh . . . mine? You shot thirty-six frames at a DOM party of what? No, Charles, you cannot use the Vice-Chancellor's office while he is out of town. You say the security police don't believe you were on official yearbook business and they have you in custody? Well — exactly what were you and Shirley doing in the darkroom at 2 a.m.? Copy, copy everywhere and no two lines fit, Copy, copy everywhere, and it all sounds like . . . (Who did you say wrote this) There are sixty cases of yearbooks sitting out on the sidewalk and you want me to tell you where to put them? (hehehehehe)

AN ADVISER'S ARTICLES OF FAITH

Article I — Never ask for volunteers; recruit directly from your own classes then issue the ultimatum: fail to meet deadlines — fail the course.

Article II — A photographer in the hand is inhibited, but two in a bush can produce candids you wouldn't believe.

Article III — Positively nothing (especially not an apple a day) keeps Dr. Howell from asking "Who authorized this $350.00 invoice from Cuban Liquor Store?" and "Two hundred dollars round-trip to New Orleans during Mardi Gras to photograph what?"

Article IV — Keep the first-aid kit handy at all times. Alka Seltzer for gascid indigestion and heartburn from eating six hundred leftover yearbooks. Alcohol for you-know-what, from five-day workshops, from trips to the publisher, and from midnight work sessions on the eve of a deadline; for editor, chief photographer, and adviser after each head-knocking, name-calling, punch-throwing session to settle (for the fifth time this year) exactly who's in charge here; for headache pain and arthritis of the tongue from explaining to fifty students this year that there aren't enough yearbooks (after you ate last year's six hundred leftovers). Bandaids for cut budgets, cut wages, cut classes, and cut copy; for cut-ups, cut-ins, cut-outs, and cut-throats; for cut lines and cropped pictures; and for an occasional slashed wrist. Matches for burning in negatives, burning out competitors; for burning up the evidence and for burning your entire staff in effigy!

Article V — A penny saved goes back into university funds, so spend you fool, spend!

Article VI — It's time to retire when the editor instructs a new staffer to "check the dummy" and he shows up in your office to ask how you're feeling.

He reads Abbie Hoffman. 2. Meet Ima Hooker, smalltown girl who made herself big in the city. She prefers Xaviera Hollander. 3. Not this one, he's Captain Blight. After three years at sea, his interests are not literary. 4. No, wrong again. Frankly Frenny Frackles is fixated at the funny book phase. 5. Incorrect. A former reviewer for Look Magazine, Eric Derelict is now engaged in exhibiting his many other talents. 6. Hera Shema Lema (alias Tokyo Fly-trap). Some grasshopper stole the pebbles from her hand, and when she catches him, she's gonna smash his thorax. 7. Nope, Luke Warm. He's saving his reading for a rainy day. # The LSUS Law Society

If the three basic essentials for a successful on-campus organization are providing the participants with a broadened view of the opportunities offered by life, enhancing members' ability to work diligently both alone and in group effort, and helping the active member prepare himself for future challenges, the LSUS Law Society measures up in every respect.

Through the speakers the Law Society brings to the LSUS campus in the form of experienced lawyers, judges, and businessmen, the Society allows its members the luxury of having access to the very real dilemma they may face as their careers progress. Newly graduated law school students also offer insight into graduate curriculum as well as practical pointers for prospective entrants of the nation's law schools.

During the 1974-75 spring semester, the Law Society has increased its membership beyond forty active members, and if all goes as planned, it will exceed on hundred active members in the coming semesters.

The Society, in addition to hosting speakers on campus, sponsors an annual barbecue for members and friends. Regular meetings are held monthly which provide hopeful prelaw students with the opportunity to voice their ideas on possible avenues of improvement for the club. Members are free to voice objects and instigate change with majority approval, a good exercise in the art of persuasion.

Perhaps the best way to characterize the LSUS Law Society would be as an organization of young women and men accepting the responsibility of leadership and rising to meet the challenges of an ever-changing modern world.

Beta Chi

Membership to Beta Chi is open to any full time student at LSUS who holds an overall grade average of 2.0 or better and who has any interest in the business world.

In order to develop contact and communication with the local business community, area businessmen are often invited to speak at Beta Chi's meetings. Past speakers have included Mr. Tom Cooper from Xerox Inc., who presented a program concerning the growth and future plans of the company. At another meeting, Mr. John Evans, President of the Sales and Marketing Club of Shreveport, gave a talk which was of special interest to the senior members of the club. He outlined how to prepare oneself mentally for a job interview, writing a resume, and successfully getting through the interview itself.

Beta Chi is also a very socially active club. Last fall's events included a trip to the Texas State Fair in Dallas. One of the most successful parties held last fall was a "Fifties Party." Slicked back hair and ankle length skirts were required for entry. Activities at the party included such "oldies but goodies" as a dance contest, a limbo contest, and a hula-hoop exhibition. Rebel Brown and Laurie Brown tied for the title of "Miss Teen Angel" while Barney Brasseux was elected "Best Greaser."

Honors at the fall Picnic and Field Day held in November were won by Cheryl Holmes and Sam Welbarn who were presented trophies for their athletic prowess in events such as dart throwing, "eggs and spoon," racing, and football tossing.

Future events still in the planning stages include an "Old West Days" party and a Spring Picnic.

Beta Chi has received a great deal of recognition from its participation in intra-mural sports. Under the name of "Mac's Pac," Beta Chi's football and basketball teams have displayed great athletic ability. In the spring of 1974, Beta Chi received an award for being the club most actively involved in all aspects of intramural sports.

The advisers and members of Beta Chi have been instrumental in forming a chapter of Phi Sigma Epsilon which is a national marketing fraternity at LSUS.

With many occasions to celebrate, Beta Chi is a very social club. All pictures taken at some of their parties and picnics.

THE ART CLUB

Accounting Club

The Accounting Club is in its second semester at LSUS. The first semester the club was primarily concerned with building a sound base in order to insure its success in the future. We had speakers from different public accounting firms who have helped enlighten us as to conditions in the "world outside." Our future plans include forums on pertinent accounting topics, tutorial sessions for students taking accounting courses, and social get-togethers where members can get to know each other. This club will be the forerunner of the national accounting honorary fraternity.

The main objective of the Accounting Club is to help the accounting major adapt more readily to the environment that awaits him once he is out of school. The LSUS Accounting Club is to help the accounting major better prepare himself to take the Certified Public Accountant Examination and to help him be better informed on topics currently affecting the accounting profession.

The officers of the club are as follows: President — Tommy Starkey, Vice president — Ernie Carpenter, Secretary — Beth Williams, Treasurer — Marsha Millican, and the adviser is Dr. Marilynn Winnborne, Professor of Accounting.

Art Club seeks to stimulate creativity

In its second year at LSUS, the Art Club started off with a drive to attract new members. The Club made a special effort to dispel old ideas that belonging to an art club means knowing how to draw, paint, or sculpt. How unfortunate that so many people are missing out by feeling this way! The Art Club's purpose is to promote any kind of creativity, both here at the university as well as joining community efforts. The Club wants each person to become more aware of his own creative potential.

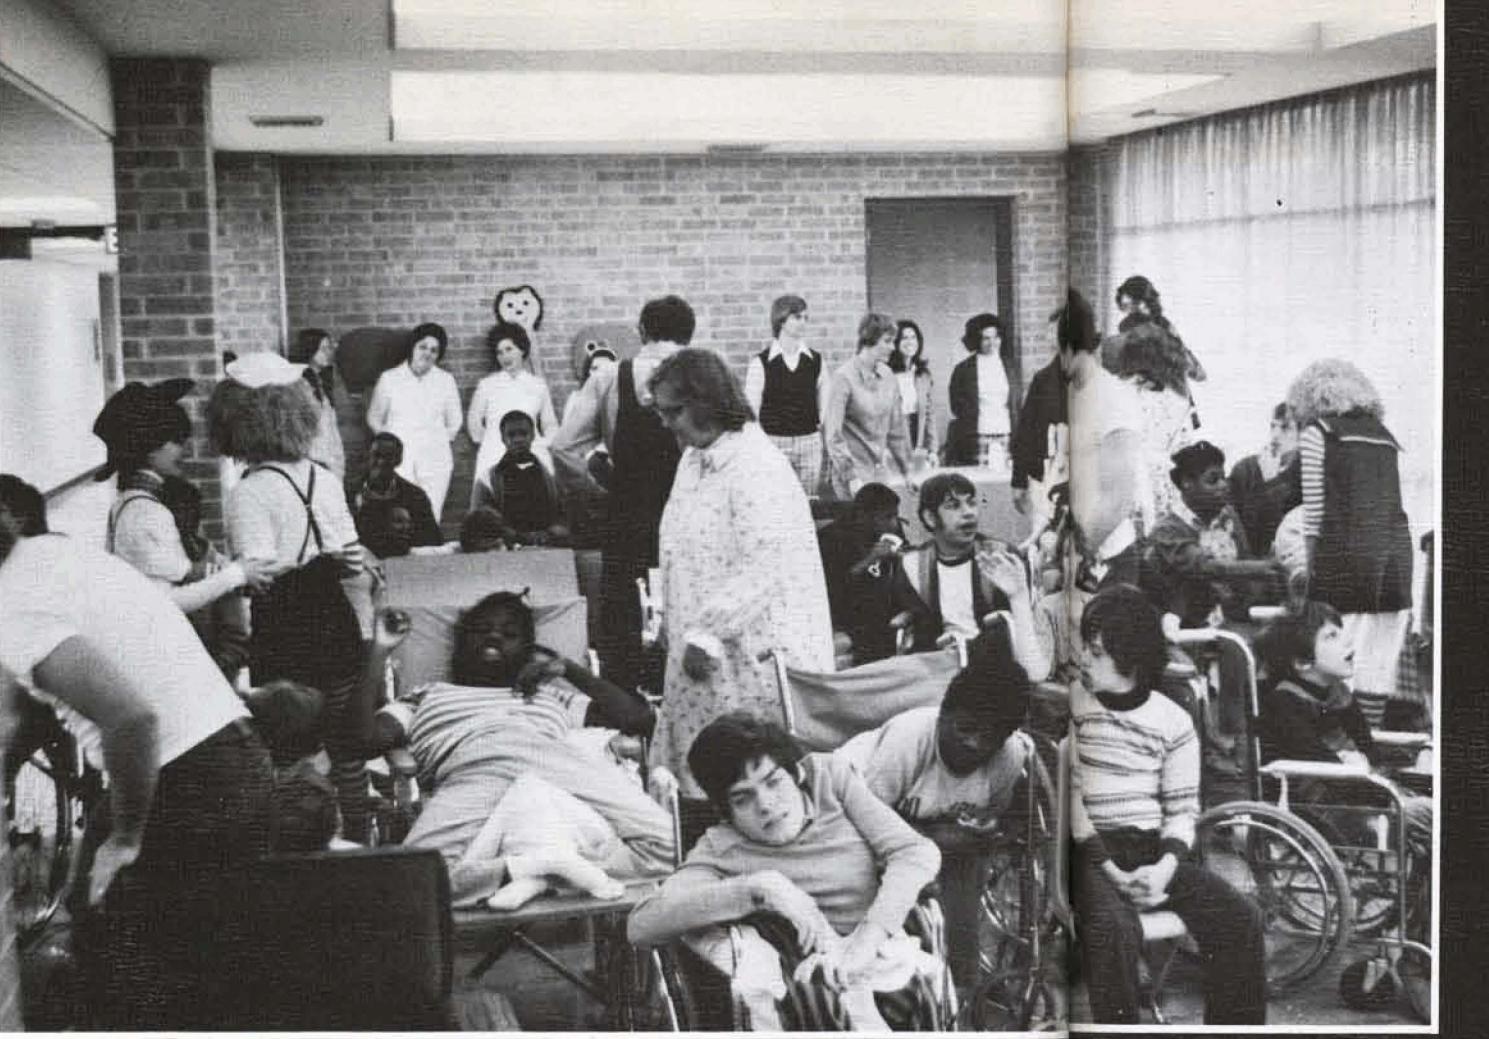

Some of the activities the Club participated in have included tie-dying a backdrop at the Artists and Lecturers Committee's request. Some members also volunteered their time to help paint the Almagest's newspaper boxes. The Club set up a booth during the Louisiana State Fair, featuring potato printing, something that attracted everyone's interest.

Several successful art sales were held, also. During some of the meetings, guests were invited to give demonstrations of simple crafts anyone could easily make. A column was placed in the Almagest giving instructions on how to make simple crafts. There are plans to place a macrame wall hanging or large mural in one of the stairwells this 1974-75 school year. Ending the fall semester on a gay note, the Club met for a Christmas Dinner at Abe's Sea and Sirloin.

The Art Club's officers include Vivian Soderstrom, President; Virginia Walker, Vice President; Carol Sutton, Secretary; Sharon Stevens, Treasurer; with Ms. Terzia and Ms. Savoy as the advisers. The Club's services are open to other clubs or persons needing any assistance. The Art Club is here to serve everyone.

Sigma Alpha Upsilon was organized the first year that LSUS was in operation. It is a merit fraternity, open to all who are interested in working for and with children, and based on a concept of service. New members remain pledges until they have completed a required number of service hours and are then initiated at the fall or spring banquet.

SAU has two divisions, the Players and the Helpers. The Players division produces a series of short plays for children based on fairy tales, holidays, and other themes. Several of these plays are combined into a complete program and presented at various schools, libraries in the area each year. A highlight of the year is the annual Christmas program, complete with plays, Santa Claus and refreshments, presented in the Science Lecture Auditorium for the children of faculty and staff members. The Players write, act, and costume their own programs.

The Helpers division gives shows of service to such diverse activities as the LSUS Communication Center, the Bit-of-Help program at Southfield School, reading tutor programs in the public schools, the local Head Start programs, and the Alexander Speech Center. Helpers perform all sorts of chores, from cleaning up the toys in a waiting room to preparing materials for a teacher, telling stories to a child and collecting soup labels for the Caddo Parish Hard of Hearing Classes.

Outstanding service is rewarded by membership in two honor groups. Membership in either group is awarded for an outstanding quantity and quality of service given.

SAU is governed by the Executive Council composed of the officers and several faculty sponsors. The group has rewritten its constitution and expanded its scope this year in an effort to grow with LSUS. All students who have an interest in children and the problems of children are invited to join and work with us.

SLTA

The LSU-Shreveport Chapter of the Student Louisiana Teachers' Association began small in number yet strong in spirit. Now in its second year the organization has doubled its membership and has succeeded in forming an association for future teachers that offers opportunities for personal as well as professional growth. This success is the result of the teamwork between a dedicated faculty adviser, Dr. Virginia Eddleman, a faithful hard working slate of officers, President Bob Banning, Vice President Marianne Loftin, Secretary Linda Jeter, Treasurer Rosetta Gregorio, Historian Renea Tolbert, and a wonderful group of enthusiastic club members. Throughout the year SLTA hosted a variety of speakers who discussed concepts and problems in education today and other items of interest to teachers. In addition many members were able to participate in National Education Week activities and both the LTA and SLTA conventions.

But SLTA is more than business meetings and formal discussions. It enables those students pursuing careers in the field of education to come together and share with each other their problems and apprehensions concerning their chosen profession after having faced their first real live class, many exciting and frustrating experiences in student teaching, and an anticipation of the future.

As education majors reach their ultimate goals of becoming educators, the memory of the friendly fellowship and the learning experiences shared in SLTA in the "good ole days" at LSUS will always abide with them.

The Student Council for Exceptional Children, Chapter #953 became a nationally recognized organization September 17, 1974. It is a student branch of the national organization, Council for Exceptional Children. It obtained its membership by registering 21 paid charter members. The dues are $9.00 annually — $8.00 going to the national organization and $1.00 going to the LSUS treasury.

The purpose of SCEC at LSUS is to inform the public about the needs and service available in the Special Education field. On the LSUS campus, SCEC endeavors to inform special education majors of available volunteer and paying jobs relating to their field. Anyone interested in special education and/or exceptional children is invited to join the ranks of SCEC. As an added benefit to joining SCEC, its members receive 2 professional journals — Exceptional Children and Teaching Exceptional Children, as well as newsletters and leaflets concerning special education.

This semester SCEC has organized officially and will perform in conjunction with SAU, another campus organization, a Thanksgiving project for Northwest State School in Bossier City, Louisiana. It also is repairing damaged toys and clothing donated by local merchants in order to present them to Northwest State School for Christmas. There is a booth planned for Spring registration and a bake sale for the near future.

The present officers are as follows: Elizabeth Feibel, President; Johnnie P. Burleson, Vice President; Cathy Dianne Greenlee, Secretary; Douglas Campbell, Treasurer; and Jackie Carter, Historian. Dr. Larry Marshman, Head of the Special Education Department, serves as adviser.

The LSUS Agricultural Club participated in many activities during the past school year.

The school year of 1974-75 began with the rebirth of the LSUS Agricultural Club, aimed primarily at fulfilling the interests of the students interested in the different areas of modern agriculture.

The first activities of the club included field trips to area farms, ranches, riding clubs, and the Red River Experiment Station. These trips are designed to teach the members new techniques in raising and selecting plants and animals, as well as understanding the jobs of people in the agricultural field.

The most exciting event of the year was competing in the 1st Annual Collegiate Livestock Judging Competition at the 1974 Louisiana State Fair in October, 1974. The members competed with students from other universities and discussed activities they were participating in to become more aware of the changing agricultural world of today.

The next events on the agenda of the LSUS Agriculture Club is to compete in the College Livestock Judging Competition at the 1975 Houston Fat Stock Show, and to tour area veterinary clinics. Persons interested in the aims of this club are welcome to come and participate in its activities at any time.

Statistics hold that 1 out of every 10 applicants will be accepted into medical school. Which of these will be our future doctors? ### STATEMENT OF INFORMATION SUBMITTED ON BEHALF OF ETA SIGMA GAMMA — THE HEALTH SCIENCES CLUB

- 1) Testimony of the President
- Q. Mr. Gorsulowsky, what was the nature of your affiliation with the Health Sciences Club from 1974-75?
- A. I was president of the club.
- Q. During that time you were aware of the fact that the club had partaken in a trip to Houston's Medical Center on May 21-23, 1974. Is that not so?
- A. To the best of my recollection that is true.
- Q. Is it not also true that the purpose of that trip was to carry out surveillance of the city's medical and scientific facilities while taking advantage of the recreational facilities as well?
- A. Let me make this perfectly clear — yes.
- 2) Testimony of the Vice President
- Q. Mr. Minton, were you a participant in the alleged activities carried out by the members of your club?
- A. No. I was at the office of the Internal Revenue Service at the time specified.
- 3) Testimony of the Historian
- Q. Ms. Roach, exactly what were the activities which the club was engaged in on that trip?

A. Observation of Dr. Michael Debakey performing open heart surgery at Methodist Hospital, a tour of that hospital, a tour of the Baylor Medical School facilities, attendance lectures and classes at the school, lunch and conversation with some of the medical students in the cafeteria, a tour of the Baylor Medical School Library, observation of Dr. Denton Cooley and other doctors performing open heart surgery at the St. Luke's Hospital, a tour of that hospital and its laboratories, and following the rounds of some of the doctors at the hospital.

4) Testimony of the Secretary/Treasurer

Q. Ms. Price, how was the money which financed the trip raised?

A. The profits from the rummage sale were used.

Q. On the itinerary sheet for that trip, all night agendas are left to individual preferences. Why is that?

A. Because we have advisers to the club, not supervisors of the club.

Q. And who are these advisers?

Q. What was the purpose of the car wash and rummage sale the club undertook in 1975?

A. To raise money to finance the trip to New Orleans in which we toured the medical, dental, and scientific facilities of the city as well as took advantage of the recreational facilities.

5) Testimony of the Programs Director

Q. Mr. Elfervig, what were some of the other activities the members of the club engaged in during 1975?

A. Business meeting, discussions of new advances in the health sciences field, a fellowship-promoting party at Mamma Mia's (they made us an offer we couldn't refuse), and talks given by professionals in all the health sciences fields on topics such as "How to Get Into Medical School", "Medical Technology", "Cyto-Technology", "Pathology", "Ophthalmology", "Internship and Residency", "Oral Surgery", "Forensic Medicine", and "Pharmacology."

Let's have a big round of applause for the Student Entertainment Committee

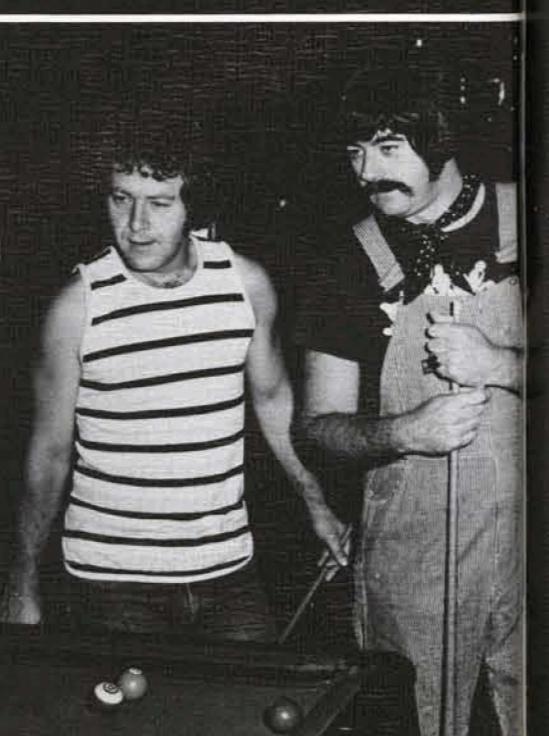

The Student Entertainment Committee started from "scratch" in January, 1974 as a separate body from the Student Government Association. SEC was charged with the planning, organizing, and production of all campus-wide student activities. Its scope includes films, dances, shows, lecturers, and other forms of entertainment that appeal to the student body. All activities are free to the entire student population, as the operating funds are budgeted from student fees.

SEC has attempted to offer a wide range of programs to reach all students. The films program on Friday nights has been most successful and has included such movies as the African Queen, Little Big Man, Save the Tiger, Lady Sings the Blues, and The Marx Brothers. A comedy show featuring the nationally famous team of Edmonds and Curley out of Chicago was held in October. The November calendar included a show of impersonations of national celebrities and dance by the Dean Scott Show from Houston. The second annual Beer Bash Boogie was scheduled during the Mardi Gras holidays with free beer served to everyone and a dance with music provided by the St. James Group from Little Rock. A Spring Bonfire was planned during the cool weather in March prior to Spring break featuring local entertainers, spirits, and food. What a way to celebrate the holidays!!

The Committee's organization is comprised of seven students; the Coordinator chairing the Committee and appointed by the Student Affairs Committee. Six remaining students are appointed by the Coordinator to fill the offices of Publicity Director, Secretary, Business Manager, Production Manager, Assistant Coordinator, and Regional Coordinator. Publicity Director and Regional Coordinator are responsible for publicizing all activities not only to the students and the university but the community as well. The Production Manager is responsible for the running of films, maintenance of equipment, and staging for all programs.

The goals of the Committee are to provide good entertainment and a variety of programs to all students and to offer activities outside the academic world in order to give the students a well-rounded education. The SEC is also the seed planted for the new University Center's Program Board and has laid much of the groundwork for the future board. Once the University Center is built, the activities program will be able to offer an even wider variety and better entertainment to the student body. Until that time, the SEC will do its best to offer the students a diverse range of activities which they would like to have at the University.

Lamba Sigma Upsilon offers awareness of the natural world around us.

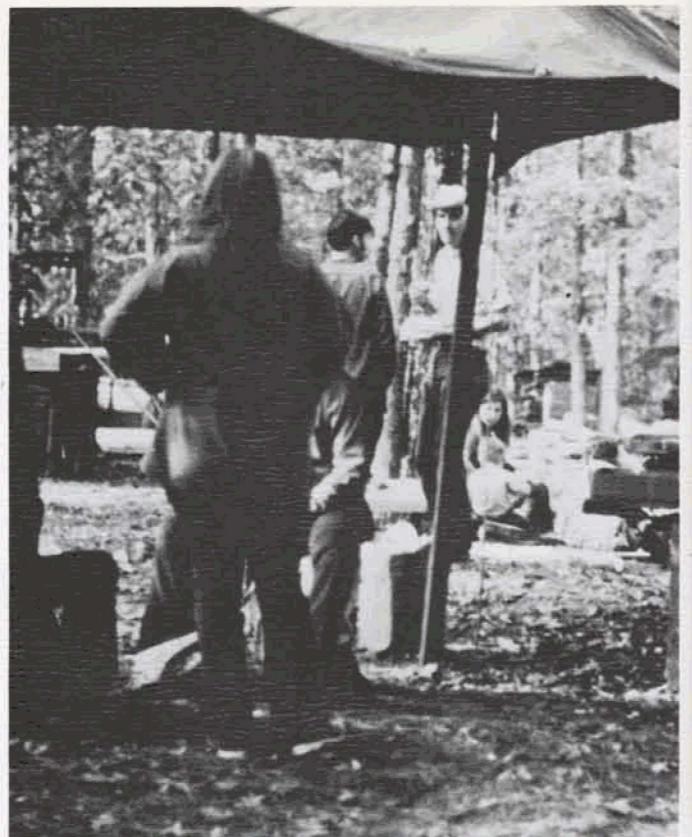

Every spring the Biology Club takes an annual expedition for several weeks to areas which offer abundant and diverse flora and fauna for study. These studies include observations of ecological relationships, habitat variations, and populations of species. Each member collects and preserves specimens of his own field of interest. Members also record and compile specific data pertaining to the specimens which is entered along with the specimen into the Museum of Life Sciences. In the past the organization has visited the following areas: Ocean Springs, Mississippi; Big Bend National Park, Texas; The Rocky Mountains of Colorado and New Mexico; southern Vera Cruz, Mexico; the Chiricahua Mountains of southeastern Arizona; the Big Thicket Wilderness Area, Texas; the Florida Everglades, and the Florida Keys.

Weekend trips are taken throughout the year to familiarize new members with collecting and preserving techniques. One of these includes an annual trip with Dr. Richard Spears to the Ouachita Biological Station in southwestern Arkansas.

The club is involved in other activities such as preparing displays for the library, contributing to the Life Sciences Museum, and lecturing to local grade schools.

For the purpose of raising money for club activities, the Biology Club holds an annual rummage sale and undertakes almost any type of odd job. The odd jobs include such things as cleaning garages, hauling away trash, moving furniture, general yard work, painting, and farm work. These jobs demand the members' time and sincere efforts. The rummage sale has proven to be the most important fund raising event. Articles such as clothing, furniture, appliances, sporting goods, etc. are collected throughout the year. Many of the items have been donated in the past by local merchants. The sale is held during the spring vacation in April and lasts for several days. All the members share the responsibility of collecting, sorting, pricing, and selling the merchandise. Money raised from these two activities helps finance scientific expeditions and the purchase of equipment for research.

The Biology Club is an informative and educational organization which offers valuable experience to the student who wants to become more aware of the natural world around him. The club was formed in 1967 and has since become one of LSUS' most active organizations. Its goals are to promote wide-spread understanding of scientific truth, to broaden the scope of classroom education, to assist in the collection of specimens for the Life Sciences Museum, and to preserve the environment.

The "Dirty Old Men" Ride Again

by Don Smith

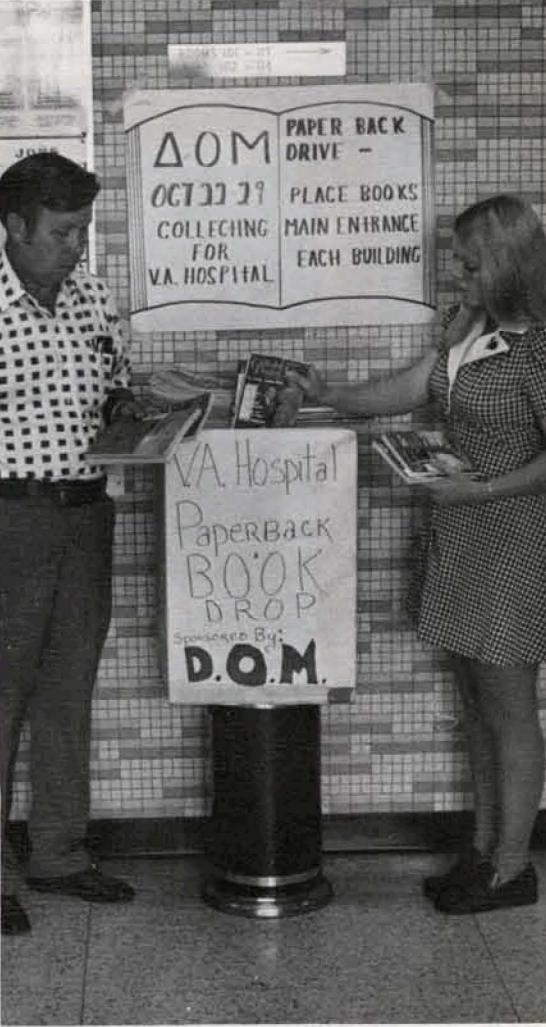

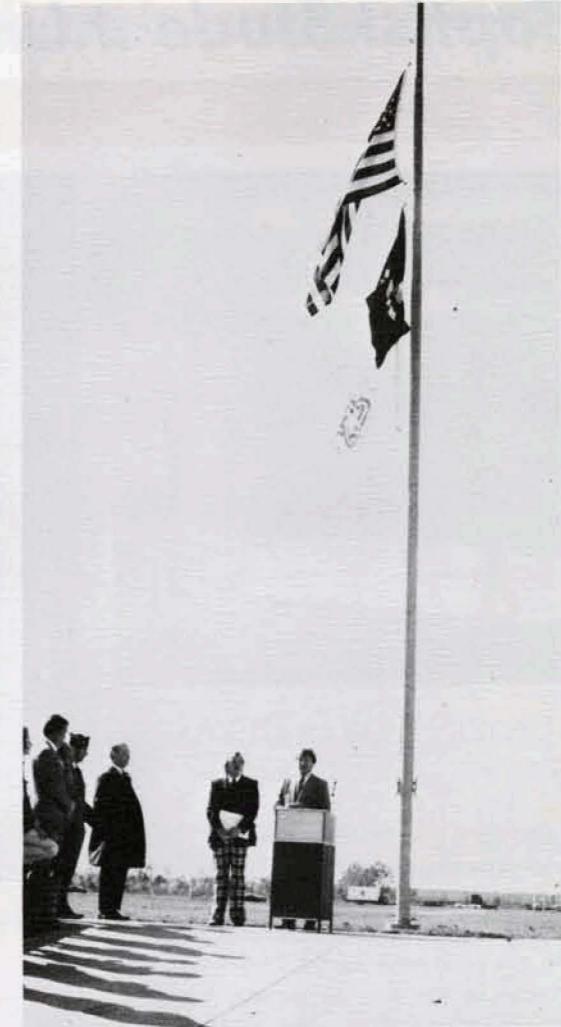

Delta Omicron Mu, more affectionately known as "Dirty Old Men," was organized in 1969 to serve a special class student at LSUS; namely, the veteran of our armed services. It was chartered with the concept of providing assistance during the academic readjustment period, tutorial assistance, and a social outlet for veterans. Its efforts were so successful that charters were established in 1970 at Louisiana Tech University and in 1974 at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. In the six years of DOM's existence there has been little modification to the original charted concepts. The typical veteran still needs to feel that he is not alone in his re-entry to the academic world and finds comfort with fellow DOM members that have been or are currently in the armed services. DOM strongly encourages its members to excel in academic excellence and has established an "academic assistance room" for veterans under the supervision of their faculty sponsors, Mr. Don Smith and Dr. Carlos Spaht.

Under the philosophy that too much work and too little fun makes a Dirty Old Man a DIRTY OLD MAN — DOM has engaged in a lively social calendar. Throughout the summer and early fall, monthly "get-togethers" were held. At the onset of autumn the free spirit drove DOM members to the great outdoors for a gala open pit barbecue enjoyed by members and DOM alumni. The social calendar then reflects a rememberable Halloween party hosted by DOM's man of the year, Ed Sanders. The romance of an old fashion hayride and bonfire was enjoyed by fifty-five hearty members. (Who was the odd ball?) To top off the fall's calendar of events DOM members were treated to their annual Christmas banquet at Barksdale's NCO Club. This event was highlighted by the presentation of a plaque to Ed and Helen Sanders for their outstanding contributions to DOM.

DOM members feel very strongly about helping others that cannot help themselves. Each semester DOM members select one community service project. Projects of the past (some continued yearly) have been an active part in the Jerry Lewis Telethon, Crippled Children Summer Camp, Toys for Tots, clothes for the Salvation Army, annual book drive for the V.A. Hospital and local tributes to veterans on Veterans Day.

The officers for the fall semester were: Raymond Williams, Chairman; Guy Goldsby, Vice Chairman; George Essary, Secretary; Rene Langlois, Treasurer; and Marvin Street, Pledge Chairman.

Baptist Student Union bridges the gap between church and school

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION MAKES DREAMS BECOME REALITIES

You plan and dream . . . and then you finally arrive. You meet people, you receive cards and slips of paper and instructions, and you listen, and you stand in line, and suddenly . . . you're miserable. Even while your face is smiling, you are crying inside. You feel uncertain and alone in a cold new world. This is where the Baptist Student Union comes in. Because of the way it is on campus — sometimes rough, sometimes confusing. And sometimes, you need a supporting fellowship. That's Baptist Student Union. It's not a closed organization. It's just close. Close because Baptist churches want to help you to adjust to involvement in the academic world. They know you'll be confronted with questions, and problems, and occasionally, just free time on your hands.

Perhaps they think of this fellowship as a leaven or catalyst. Within it, you debate and discuss; you play and rest; you think and pray; you worship and study. You share your problems with another student and he shares his with you. Out of the fellowship comes a team effort for Christ. Christ cares for you, so you care for your fellow students. You "breathe in" spiritual strength from the fellowship and "breathe out" in ministry and love. You reach out to the community through tutoring, weekday missions, and other expressions of concern. You are stronger as an individual on campus and in your church.

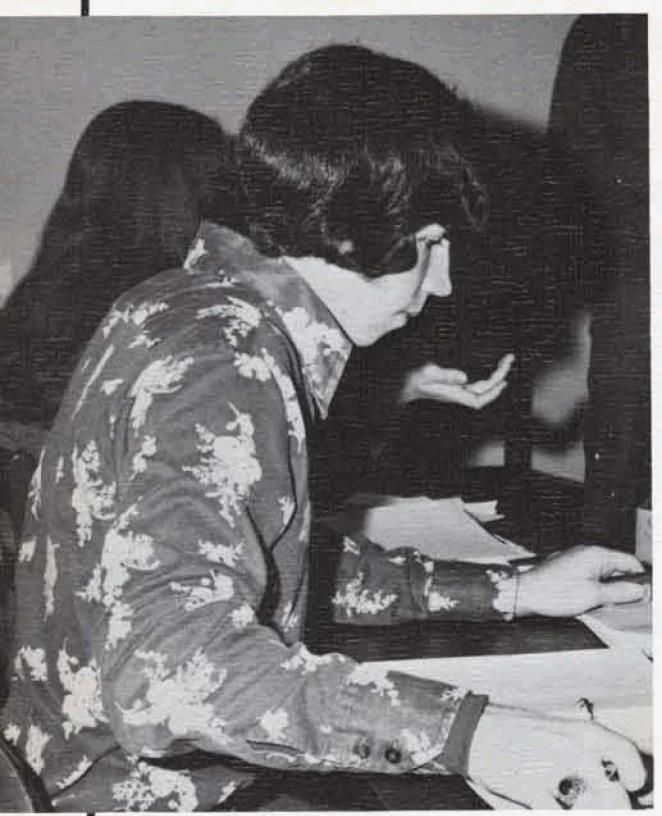

The whole picture begins to emerge and you grow academically, spiritually, and emotionally. You find your faith relevant to your new knowledge. That's Baptist Student Union — a fellowship of concerned students growing together and representing Christ on campus.

Center — Members of BSU enjoy the tasty lunch that is served at the end of each uplifting fellowship.

BSU not having a formal structure, some of the people are unidentified. IN PERSPECTIVE • SGA

A Serious Look

EDITOR'S NOTE: The SGA was the only major University organization "too busy" to furnish adequate copy for its own section but finally delivered during deadline week. Six weeks after deadline the president and senator responsible for submitting the copy demanded its withdrawal and the substitution of a "more objective view." They ignored all courtesies and all protocol, bypassing Editor, Adviser, Department Head, Vice-Chancellor of Student Affairs, and Publications Committee to air their complaint "at the top." Their only justification was that they "assumed that time was of the essence." Bagatelle staff members feel it too bad the pressure of time was not as important to them four months before deadline when they were first asked to produce copy as it was to them on this particular day six weeks after deadline. Our SGA concerns itself with "image," not with inconvenience to the student body. In view of this and other unhappy encounters with our SGA, the Bagatelle elected to withdraw the original copy, offering in its place this prophecy:

Bagatelle, a voice in the wilderness, cries out
Hear O student body the words of my mouth.
My doctrine shall drop as the rain; my speech shall distil as the dew.
Because we will publish the name of LSU-Shreveport:
Ascribe greatness unto our University.
It is an educational Rock, whose work strives for perfection.
It is an institution of higher learning; it seeks to teach truths, to be just and right, without iniquity.
Hear, O SGA, lest ye corrupt thyself; thy spot is not the spot of the University's children; be not a generation of vipers whose double-edged tongues destroy others and whose deadly venom poisons and corrupts thine own entrails.
Will ye thus requite thy University, O foolish people and unwise?
Is not the University the student body? the father that hath brought thee into existence? hath it not made thee, and established thee?
The student body will shew thee the pathway to follow; thy elders, if ye will but ask, will light thy way.
In this wasteland, the student body toils, but the fruits of its labors wither upon the vine of they shallow and rootless leadership.
As an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings; so this University directs its students and its organizations into high places so that they might eat the increase of the fields and suck honey out of the rock of knowledge.

Hear, O SGA, that ye take not lightly that Rock upon which thou art established. Of the Rock that begat thee, be thou not unmindful, forgetting the University — the student body — that formed thee. For all have heard thy weeping, the smiting of thy mighty breasts, the gnashings of thy teeth in High Places, in public gathering, in private council. Oft ye have been instructed and advised but ye preferred thine own way. If ye do not this, then, however, the student body will hide its face from

If ye order not thine own house, the student body will hide its face from thee, seeing what thy end shall be: a forward generation in whom there can be no faith, a nation void of counsel, neither having in thee any understanding.

O that ye be wise, that ye understand this prophecy and consider your latter end while there is yet time.

Alpha Sigma Omicron

David Gorsulowsky, Anita Edwards, Dr. Robert Leitz, Ginger Neel, Carl Hines and Bruce Hennigan.

Alpha Sigma Omicron, the LSUS honor society, experienced several major changes in the 1974-75 year, in becoming a service-oriented organization.

In an effort to keep abreast of the rapid growth of the local campus, it donated $250.00 to the school library to be used for the purchase of microfilm. This microfilm permanently preserved back issues of newspapers, for student use.

Also innovative was the initiation of free tutoring for LSUS students, on a large scale basis. According to the honor society members participating in the project, it was very rewarding; this will be a continuing project for the society.

Honoring fellow students, the society participated in the University's Honor Day Convocation in April. This was also a first for this organization, and according to Dr. Gary Brashier, Academic Affairs Vice Chancellor, the honor society will be a permanent part of this annual affair.

Alpha Sigma Omicron continues to maintain its ideals of leadership and scholarship, in preparation for the possibility of becoming part of Phi Kappa Phi, the national honor society, in a few years.

We, the staff of the 1975 Bagatelle, tried this year to give LSUS a yearbook with a totally new concept in design. Rather than pictorial commentary on a few selected events of the fall semester, we concentrated to the best of our ability on the people behind the scenes. The students and faculty members of a university are what gives it its own particular personality. This is what we wanted to capture. Recognizing the commuter status of our university and the resulting emphasis on community affairs, we tried to cover events other than those occurring on the confines on the campus.

We actively sought solicitation from students and faculty other than those on our staff. We would therefore like to thank the following contributors: Ken Kline (pages 18-19); Dennis Hays (pages 22-23); Ms. Marilyn Gibson and Ms. Anne King (pages 36-37); Suzanne Legler, David Allen, and Denise Hazelton (pages 54-55); Ms. Phyllis Graham (pages 56-57); Dr. Larry Marshman (pages 60-61); Ms. Chyrl Savoy (pages 62-63); Dr. Anne Torrans (pages 64-65); Irvin Schuler (pages 66-67); Janet Johnson (art work, page 149); and the officers, members, and faculty advisors of the clubs covered in the organizations section.

We hope that we have succeeded in our goal and that you, the students and faculty for whom the book is intended, enjoy it.
